AUSTRIAN RULER AND SUBJECTS IN RACE FOR POWER

a portion of the Austro-Hungarian empire.

The races which desire to join their kinsmen out of the Hapsburk empire are the Poles of Galicia, the Rumanisms of the Bukovina, the Banat and Transylvania, the Jugo-Slave of Carnicla, Dalmatia, Croatia, Slavonia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Italians of Trentino, Trieste and the coastlands. These desire, respectively, to unite with Poland, Rumania, Serhia and Italy. Any other solution will be out of accord with the desires of the people and in conflict with the principles affirmed by all her allied nations and the wise policy for the future, which must look to the erection of strong states across Garmany's pixthway of aggression.

Czecho-Slovaks Approved.

In addition, the Czecho-Slovaks of Bohemia, Morawia and the highlands of northern Hungary have already declared their independence and acek to crect a new state. There legitimate ambition has already been approved both by our allies and by ourselves. Equally unqualified approval has been bestowed upon the Polish aspirations, both with respect of the Poles of Austria and of Rusia, and also of those of Germany.

Such a transformation will leave two well-defined groups of subjects of Emperor Charles, who should also be permitted to follow their own desires. These are some eight millions of Germans and ten millions of Hungarians, it the Hungarians persist in their denand for independence, then they will naturally be permitted to erect a new Magyar state, which will include all the dual monarchy.

Almost inevitably the Austrian Germans will thereafter gravitate to the German empire, in which they logically would constitute one more state, like Bavaria and Wurtemberg. Germany would thus acquire considerable new territory and add eight millions of Germans to her population, which would more than compensate for any sacrifices made in Alsace-Lorraine or Prussian Poland.

Will Die Hard.

On the other hand, before this happens a desperate fight will be made both by the Austrian Germans and the Magyars to preserve some fraction of their old control over subject races, hitherto treated and regarded by them as "inferior" races. Hungary, in particular, will make a prolonged struggle to preserve the Serbo-Croatian districts, which separate her from the searcoast and the Rumanian populations.

tricts, which separate her from the sea-coast and the Rumanian populations, which are vital to her existence as a considerable power. In this situation there is only one wise or just course, and that is to fol-low the desires of the peoples at We know that the Poles, the Italiana the Rumanians and the Jugo-Slava de-sent. Indeed, it had been suggested by critics of the government that the president was entering into a protracted exchange of words that could only burt American morale and cover up the real designs of Germany after her withdrawal from Belgium. But to this friends of the president have repeatedly made answer in emphatic language that Mr. Wilson had no such purpose in mind. They said he merely made hquiry in the first instance to get material for a straightforward reply. That reply has been made and it partock of the demand of the United States that successory be destroyed. Unless the Germanis are ready to change the fundamental character of their government, there has been no intimation of such a momentous occurrence, it is a safe assumption that the previous constants. ment, there has been no minute asuch a momentous occurrence, it is a safe assumption that the parlance over peace will come to an abrupt and unceremonious end with the German message of today.

Waited Official Note.

There is every disposition on the part f the government authorities here not There is every disposition on the part of the government authorities here not to prejudice a document whose contents they have not carefully examined and it was pointed out today that such a thing as "errors" in the wireless versions have frequently occurred in the past and on the other hand whatever may be the terms or the concessions, official Washington believes the president means to enter into no compromise with the enemy and that he will be satisfied with nothing short of a complete acceptance of his terms before even referring the question of armistice to the other belligerents and their inflitary advisors.

It is conceivable that the president's reply will be as prompt on this occasion as it has been before. From all parts of the country has come word that peace talk unless prompt) revealed in its true proportions is likely to stimulate an instinctive desire to return to preparations for industrial and business methods of peace time. If there is to be no neace, the danger of a prolonged correspondence is emphasized. Every sign indicates that Germany has not yet made sufficiently chastened to permit of negotiation with any constituted authority in Germany.

Then came the Garibaldi home, on a beight on one isde of the village, commanding a magnificent view of the countryside. The structure has all the supearance of a feudal castle, with its two towers and their wings, and the other half of the quadrangle in an unfinished state.

"Now all is quiet at the Garibaldi homestead. On the terrace and garden overlooking the hills and the valley below, not a sound is to be heard. The smiling landscape lay in a dream as under some magic spell. But the silence spoke—and most potently—of war.

stience spoke—and most potently—of war.

"A nearer vision of the fields of grain in the valley would have shown women and old men and boys hard at work, taking the place of the men fighting in the trenches. It would have shown winding up through the roadways donkeys laden with hay and women knutting as they walked. The landscape smiles drowsily in the sun, but working steadly and patiently are traly's women and children and old men, doing their share with stout and loyal hearts.

"Inside the Garibaidi home are trophies from many far-away battle fields. Some are weapons and banners secured by the father of Ricciotti Garibaidi on his Grecian campaigns, but most of them have been gathered by Peppine, who has seen service in Greece, South

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. Long be-ore the fourth Liberty loan figures ave been counted up, or the bonor lags have been entirely distributed, or flags have been entirely distributed, or the money paid in preparations have been attred at the greasury for the fifth Liberty loan. The date has not been determined, nor the amount, nor any other features. The only certain knowledge is that there will be auchier and it probably will come in the spring of 1919—in March or April. Whether present Ger-man maneuvers for peace are success-ful or not, the government by that time will need more billions to pay the var costs which can decrease only time will need more billions to pay the war costs which can decrease only gradually, even if cossatton of military effort should come.

So with this situation in mind, the lean organization of the treasury to-say had turned its attention to campaign plans for the next loan. It has been suggested that the honor fag, instead of bearing five bars, might carry the Roman sumeral "V" standing not the for "victory".

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—France is ringing with the work of the American Red Cross, writes Mrs. Belmont Tiffany of New York, to Red Cross officials in America. "I only wish America oculd realize the extent of work as well as France Goes," she added Mrs. Tiffany has been engaged in organizing rest stations for American troops at railway stations in France "Never have I been happier, never have I liked work more nor felt that I was so useful," she wrote in a recent letter. "Ever since I came abroad I have had before my eyes a vision of lathers, mothers and sisters of the soldiers in audiences in many states from Maine to Texas. They will hear and know about our great, beautiful, hospitals, with the best surgeons, doctors and nurses, working under the best possible material.

"All these things are expected of their Red Cross and taken for granted, but I wish them to know, too, that when their boys are well they have a refuge and a home as they pass along. I want them to think of them as writing and singing in the gay, bright room white waiting for their train and eating their good, warm meals, or neing sent of with sandwiches by American girls.

ENGLISH BISHOP WARNS OF MILITARISM DANGER

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—The Right Rev. Chas. Gore, bishop of Oxford, England, speaking here at a meeting of the Boston Federation of Churches, sounded a warning against overdevelopment of the military system, but said, nevertheless, it was the duty of the allies to bring peace through victory.

"There is a faschation for all the world in the raiment of a soldier," he declared, "and the self-sacrificing qualities which have been shown in the last few years make this even more keen. But if mothers of men are fed on this idea, future generations may come to feel that there is no occupation so inspiring and noble. We must not suffer this to be."

CANADIAN OFFICER

LONDON, Oct. 22.—A Canadian offleer, wounded early in the war, came to St. Katharine's Lodge, one of the
made over. The elbow had been shattered. The officer was given a choice of having a weak, movable elbow, or a strong stiff one. Without hesitation, the Canadian chose the stiff elbow, and astonished the surgeons by asking that the arm be made perfectly straight so he could use a hunting rifle and a billlard cue.

lard cue.

Another Canadian officer insisted on having his smashed leg so rebuilt that he could continue to ride a horse. It required months of orthopedic treatment, but when the patient finally left the hospital to return to his ranch in western Canada, he was ready for the saddle. saddle.

These cases illustrate not only the special work of an orthopedic hospital, but how closely the surgeons consult the wishes of their patients.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Oct 22.—The German note resulted in selling in the cotton market at the opening today. There also was scattered Southern selling and other pressure encouraged by the lower liverpool cables and continued good weather in the belt, except for the rains reported in Texas.

First prices were 5 to 39 points lower in consequence, with December selling off to 30.00 and January 29,50 on the call. At about the 30-cent level for December, however, there was renewed trade buying which heiped to absorb the arily offerluga and the market turned steader, with prices showing rallies of 15 or 20 points before the end of the first hour.
